The summer Jazz exhibition 2012 in the Köpenick Galerie Grünstraße is dedicated to the Jazz label Free Music Production (FMP).

The exhibition presents photos, posters and record covers from more than 40 years of FMP history, as well as original works (objects, drawings, sketches) by Peter Brötzmann, Bill Dixon and Peter Kowald, among others. FMP's home town was the former West Berlin, its significance for improvised music, however, has been of global dimensions. Musicians the likes of Peter Brötzmann, Cecil Taylor or Alexander von Schlippenbach are closely connected with the name of FMP.

With the aid of Jost Gebers, the driving force behind FMP and Jazzinstitut Darmstadt, Galerie Grünstraße succeeds once again in creating a space full of music even without bringing a single sound to our ears.
